
SYNTHESIS OF GLYCAN PROBES FOR UNDERSTANDING THE ASSEMBLY AND FUNCTION OF MICROBIAL GLYCANS

Todd L. Lowary

Institute of Biological Chemistry, Academia Sinica, Taipei, Taiwan
tlowary@as.edu.tw

Synthetic glycoconjugates are important biological probes. This seminar will describe ongoing investigations from the group focused on synthesizing different classes of complex glycan probes and their use in downstream investigations. A particular focus is those from microbial systems.